

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to formally express my outrage that your FCC would use partisan ideology to drive your agenda. Instead of listening to a record number of comments, you are proceeding to destroy our freedom to browse a free and open internet without being charged extra for popular sites. You are the ones who are about to harm competition, by allowing ISPs to enter into agreements with large tech companies to promote their traffic over smaller competitors. This will do damage that cannot be undone easily.

If that isn't persuasive, let me tell you this. In 2020, we will just put these rules right back into effect making your entire existence pointless. You are just wasting your oxygen even trying. We will also tell every ISP that we will put them right back in effect so they would be wise to just obey it even if it isn't a rule technically.

This will easily help us further crush your party in upcoming elections.

You will look back and wonder why you even wasted your energy. -

James Foulk